PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment; I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

For sale by George T. Wood or mailed on receipt of price, $1.

Skin Diseases Cured

BY DR. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cure as if by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

DANENHOWER.

The Arctic Hero Beset by Friends and Overwhelmed With Congratulations.

N. Y. Herald.

It returning from the jaws of death, and a sudden realization of fame, assured fortune, and the warm consideration of friends and strangers alike be a realization of the dream of life, Lieutenant Danenhower, late of the Jeannette, ought to be thoroughly pleased. So far as it was possible to judge yesterday from his movements and his conversation he is by no means inclined to be unreasonable in the matter. Somewhat flushed with excitement, as was not unnatural, he was in the gayest spirits and greeted his numerous callers with the frankness and bonhomie which is characteristic of the man and pre-eminently the "correct thing" under the circumstances. He was among the first of the guests to be astir in the corridors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday, and being greeted, said he felt in first rate condition and the best of spirits.

The change from the horrors of an Arctic winter to the brightness of a New York summer, however, meant more to him than the simple translation from one region to another. The blindness with which he is stricken is only partial, and consultation with all the oculists he had been able to see in Europe had left him in doubt on the serious question whether he would regain his eyesight. He had made up his mind, so he said yesterday, to consult some eminent American physician, and having been recommended to see Dr. Knapp, he made it his business to go with a friend to his office immediately after breakfast. There he was questioned at great length with the minutest practicality as to the causes and the symptoms of his trouble, and Dr. Knapp made the most careful examination scientifically possible of both eyes.

The result of the consultation Lieutenant Danenhower himself told later in the day. "Dr. Knapp," he said, "inspired me with perfect confidence, and I am disposed to rely on what he says, though it is in a measure disappointing. He says that the trouble is an abscess on the lower part of the iris of the left eye. He has known one or two such cases before, he says, and he thinks that while my right eye can be saved the sight of the left one cannot. He says that what I need is rest."

The Blind Stepfather of Miss Blanche Douglas Peddling Pencils.

N. Y. Sun.

While Blanche Douglas is on trial for her life in New Haven for complicity with the Malley boys in the alleged murder of Jennie Cramer, her aged, blind stepfather may be seen any day soliciting alms at the southeast corner of Canal and Centre streets. The white-haired, bareheaded old man, holding in one out-stretched hand a very much worn hat, and in the other half a dozen penny pencils, as a weak protest against the charge of beggary, is a familiar figure to the crowds that throng the corner. Matthew Hines is forty-eight years old, and was made blind by sparks from his chisel seventeen years ago, when he was working as a stone cutter. He lives in a wretched back room on the first floor of 96 Roosevelt street, and subsists on charity. To a Sun reporter he said: "Yes, she is my stepdaughter, but she is nothing to me. Her name is really Anastasia Kiernan, not Blanche Douglas. That she took when she went to the bad. She was her own worst friend. Yes, perhaps she will come out all right; but she is nothing to me, sir. I married her mother, and raised the girl from the time that she was six years old. She never earned a cent to support me. Her mother is dead these five years. I am a very, very poor man now."

New table linen of the finest grades comes in tinted grounds, with damask designs in white on one side, while on the other the order is reversed.

Automatic Cash Boys.

Washington Star.

The day of the cash boy is drawing to a close, as an invention has appeared which is destined to entirely supercede that hitherto saucy but useful member of society. The ladies who thronged Woodward & Lothrop's Boston dry goods house, Pennsylvania avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets, recently, witnessed the Damson automatic cash-carrier system in full operation. It may be described briefly as an elevated railroad, on which hollow wooden globes, freighted with cash and bills, are sent to and from the cashier, and salesman. "This is our cash boy," said Mr. Lothrop to a Star reporter, taking up one of the globes and exhibiting it to the reporter. The globe is divided into hemispheres, which are locked together by turning one upon the other. When a customer tenders payment for goods the cash is placed and locked, as described, in this globe. In order to prevent any aberration in the movement of the ball, the contents are held very firmly in the center by springs. The freighted ball is then placed in a little elevator, which is hauled to an upper track, where it is discharged from the elevator upon an ingenious arrangement, and at once begins its journey down a long incline to the cashier. Here the right change is placed in the ball, which is started back on another incline, and is discharged automatically into a little box or receiver at the hand of the salesman. The wooden globe performs its errand with a promptness and regularity seldom attained by the most dutiful and ambitious cash boy. There are two tracks running along each side of the store to the cashier's elevated desk, the upper one being inclined toward the cashier and the lower one away from him. The balls are of different sizes, and though there are a dozen balls following one another in rapid succession, the right ball always goes to the right place, as the automatic trap which discharges it is adjusted that it only operates on the ball of the size belonging to the box beneath. The successful operation of the system was witnessed by many people, the constant and rhythmic click of the balls making a very cheerful and agreeable accompaniment for the prosy details of business.

Renaissance cloth is a new dress fabric.

Shot and changeable silk are once more in high favor.

Grenadines in Spanish lace designs are novel and elegant.

"Jumbo" ornaments and charms are worn by the million.

Turn-over collars, with fancy neck ribbons, are fashionable.

Pale amber and cypress green are fashionably combined in French dinner toilets of satin and moire.

New embroidered lace fichus of black net glitter with a dense covering of fine-cut jet bugles and pendants.

New parasols and umbrellas have handles of the wood of the natural stick, knobbed crutched and hooked.

Advice to wives: Man is very much like an egg—keep him in hot water and he is bound to become hardened.

Parasols are very large, and made to look larger by the lace and embroidered volantes with which they are bordered.

Large Watteau fans are now painted in floral designs, matching those seen upon dress fabrics of foulard and sateen.

Ruchings which show pinked out edgings are again in fashion, but fringed ruchings are most delicate and effective.

Terra-cotta, copper color, corn color or cream tinted camel's hair, enlivened with cardinal, are favorite combinations in new French tea gowns.

The terra-cotta glove is a success notwithstanding its startling color, and it is now sold by houses that condemned it when it was first introduced.
